

Getting the Benefit of the Bargain in Breach of Contract Claims

Strategies for successful litigation in breach of contract cases

This one-hour program focuses on how to enforce contracts of all kinds. The seasoned business litigators on our faculty discuss issues that commonly arise in breach of contract and related claims. The program covers issues concerning contract formation, including the enforceability of letters of intent, term sheets, oral agreements, implied agreements, and performance in the face of unsigned drafts. The faculty also discuss remedies, including damages theories and specific performance, as well as related non-contract claims and theories of recovery. The program addresses strategies for litigating breach of contract claims, including whether to seek injunctive or declaratory relief, and whether to consider alternative dispute resolution such as arbitration or mediation. Finally, the faculty present an overview of other contract-related issues such as defenses and principles of contract interpretation.

Mandatory CLE credits

Individual attorneys are responsible for checking with their particular state CLE accreditation authority about whether and how much credit will be granted. Although MCLE does not pursue state-based credit, MCLE programs are regularly approved in many jurisdictions. It is the responsibility of the individual attorney to submit the information and certifications required under the respective state rule to the appropriate authorities in the jurisdictions in which they seek credit.

Depending on the jurisdiction, lawyers can satisfy their mandatory CLE requirements online with MCLE's webcasts, which feature periodic attendance prompts, electronic written materials, and the opportunity to receive a certificate of attendance.
